

Letters Home

Hello, my name's Brian Osborne. I was only fifteen when World War 1 broke out and I joined up right away. As I was too young to fight I had to stow away on a ship to take part in the battles in Gallipoli (modern day Turkey).

Listen to my letters. Who was I writing to? Who would you miss if you were away from home?

What would you write back to me? Share some ideas on the whiteboard.

When I was hiding on the ship somebody ripped open my kitbag and stole all my belongings, so in my letters I ask for some new things which you can see here. Why do you think each of them would have been useful to me in the trenches?
